FASHION GROUP INTERNATIONAL DENVER LAUNCHES ONLINE AUCTION TO RAISE SCHOLARSHIP & EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMMING FUNDS

DENVER, Colo. (September, 9th, 2015) – The Fashion Group International Denver will launch their first online auction Monday, September 21st, 2015 at 5:00 AM MST to raise funds for their annual scholarship program and educational programming.

For 25 years, FGI Denver has encouraged men and women to seek career opportunities in fashion and related industries, prepared them for success in these industries and connected them to the professional base that exists within the local marketplace.

The executive members have supported these initiatives by acting as mentors for internship programs in the Denver market's educational programs and offering student membership for qualified candidates. Most importantly FGI Denver has developed scholarships to be awarded to deserving students in the various Fashion Design and Fashion Retail Marketing and Management programs at Colorado State University, The Art Institute of Colorado, Rocky Mountain College of Art and Design, Johnson and Wales University and Emily Griffith Opportunity School.

Fashion Group International Denver recognizes students as the future of the fashion industry. The scholarship program is a celebration of their potential and talent. FGI Denver is proud to contribute to their future success in some small way. Another fundamental goal of the organization is to provide enrichment to seasoned members through informative, relevant programming. FGI Denver hosts popular business panels such as "Meet The Press" and "Inside The Mind of Buyer", as well as networking events designed to help members grow and thrive.

The auction is held through Bidding For Good and includes an array of exclusive items.
